THE BRIDGE OF SIGNS!

BY THOMAS HOOD.

"Drowned! Drowned!"—[HAMLET.
 One more unfortunate,
 Weary of breath,
 Rashly importunate,
 Gone to her death!

Take her up tenderly,
 Lift her with care,
 Fashioned so slenderly,
 Young, and so fair!

Look at her garments
 Clinging like cements:
 Whilst the wave constantly
 Drips from her clothing:
 Take her up instantly,
 Loving, not loathing.

Touching her not scornfully;
 Think of her mournfully,
 Gently and humanely;
 Not of the stains of her,
 All that remains of her
 Now is pure womanly.

Make no deep scrutiny
 Into her mutiny
 Rash and unadvised;
 Past all dishonor:
 Death has left on her
 Only the beautiful.

Still, for all slips of hers,
 One of Eve's family—
 Wipe those poor lips of hers
 Oozing so clammy.

Loop up her tresses
 Escaped from the comb,
 Her fair tresses tresses:
 Whilst wonderment guesses
 Where was her home?

Who was her father?
 Who was her mother?
 Had she a sister?
 Had she a brother?
 Or was there a dearer one
 Still, and a nearer one
 Yet, than all other?

Alas for the rarity
 Of Christian charity
 Under the sun!
 O, it is pitiful!
 Near a whole city full,
 Home she had none.

Sisterly, brotherly,
 Fatherly, motherly
 Feelings had changed;
 Love, by harsh exorcism,
 Thrown from its shrine:
 Even God's providence
 Seemed estranged.

Where the lamps quiver,
 So far in the river,
 With many a light
 From window and casement,
 From garret to basement,
 She stood, with amazement,
 Homeless by night.

The bleak wind of March
 Made her tremble and shiver;
 But not the dark arch,
 She the black flowing river,
 And from life's history,
 Clad to death's mystery,
 Swift to be buried—
 Anywhere, anywhere
 Out of the world!

In she plunged boldly,
 No matter how coldly
 The rough river ran—
 Over the brink of it.
 Picture it—think of it,
 Dissolute man!
 Lave in it—think of it—
 Then, if you can!

Take her up tenderly,
 Lift her with care,
 Fashioned so slenderly,
 Young, and so fair!

Ere her limbs frigidly
 Stiffen too rigidly,
 Decently,—kindly,—
 Smooth, and compose them;
 And her eyes, close them,
 Staring so blindly!

Deadly staring
 Through muddy immurity,
 As when with the daring
 Last look of despairing
 Kissed on futurity.

Perishing gloomily
 Spurred by continuity,
 Bold inhumanity,
 Baring insanity,
 Into her rest,
 Gaze her hands humbly,
 As if praying dumbly,
 Over her breast!

Obeying her weakness,
 Her evil behavior,
 And leaving, with meekness,
 Her sins to her Saviour!

[From the Louisville Courier.]
 FREDERICKSBURG, VA., Aug. 22, 1866.

As one of the secretaries of the "Memorial Association of Fredericksburg," I have been requested to write and solicit your influence in behalf of the work we have undertaken—that of rescuing from oblivion and desecration the graves of our fallen heroes that rest near us.

It is estimated that from five to eight thousand of these brave men are buried on the various battle-fields around us. With few exceptions these "lucky dead" lie just where they fell. Amid the stormy strife of battle—amid the sad surroundings of such a scene, the act of burial was hastily and imperfectly performed, and it is impossible therefore to preserve the names of these graves, scattered as they are over so great a surface, even were the lands ours; but these may in the exigencies of these times pass into other hands. Our desire is to remove this precious dust to one consecrated spot, where it shall be our privilege and pleasure to keep watch over them while life lasts, as they cheerfully guarded our homes and defended our cause.

Impoverished as we were by the desolations of war, we are unable to do more than begin to work, unaided by those, who, like ourselves, cherished the memory of these fallen heroes.

We are earnestly desirous of going to the work in good earnest this fall, ere another winter shall, in a measure, obliterate the traces of the graves. We will most gratefully receive the smallest offering, and also the expressions of interest and sympathy from those who are denied the pleasure of aiding in other ways. None know better than we how war has impoverished Southern homes and put a limit to Southern generosity, and were not the demands of the cause so urgent and imperative, we would hesitate to appeal to the sympathy of the North.

My heart is full of sorrowing as I recall the past with its proud memories. Yet

THE CYNTHIANA NEWS.

VOL. XII.

CYNTHIANA, KY., SEPTEMBER 6, 1866.

NO. 26.

again I see our noble army as it clustered around us in our hour of peril, when we and they amid scenes of common trial and suffering awaited the issues of the strife, willing to resign all for the cause.

Have and true were the inconquerable hearts of those noble men, and instinctively did they descend the South in the days when hope and glory rested on our "Starry Cross." We can never cease to love or to remember "the cold, dead hands that bore" that banner aloft in many a conflict.

I can never forget how the shadow of the angel of death passed over those gallant men as one brave heart and then another ended its earthly warfare and passed beyond the stars.

We mourn these peerless heroes as our brothers "slain in battle," and we cannot rest till their graves are rendered sacred from intrusion, hoping some day to erect enduring tributes to their memory. "Till then, we will enshrine them in our hearts with our 'lost cause' and 'conquered banner.'"

Well do we know that each nameless grave represents a life of peerless heroism, and for each dead Confederate who sleeps near us, a glad Southern home has been darkened, and hope and joy have passed from many anguished hearts. The sad misfortune of war will never cease to be changed for those who fell a glorious sacrifice in our struggle for freedom. The very night winds as they sadly sweep over their lowly graves seem to be chanting the requiem of "our brothers," and the "setting of our great hopes," and we can almost envy those dreamless sleepers in the great army of our dead, who fell unconquered by the foe, and ere the glory of existence seemed to fade from our Southern land.

May we not ask your influence and co-operation in any manner that may be in your power?

Our hearts go forth in earnest sympathy to all the mourning homes and weary hearts in your own State, that must ever long for the voices that are still, and listen in vain for the loved tones of a Southern soldier.

With respect, yours, &c.,
 VIRGINIA S. KNOX.

AN APPEAL FOR THE UNRECORDED DEAD.

To all true hearted women and men who would rescue from oblivion the memory of the brave who died in defense of home and country:

The Ladies' Memorial Association of Fredericksburg, Va., present this appeal. The stern pressure of military necessity made it impossible properly to care for the remains of the gallant dead who fell on the bloody fields of Fredericksburg, Wilderness, Chancellorsville, Spotsylvania Court-house, and in the scores of skirmishes, which in a war less terrible, would have been reckoned battles.

Our association proposes to preserve a record, and, as far as possible, mark the spot where every Confederate soldier is buried in this vicinity, whether he fell on these memorable fields or otherwise died in the service. To the bereaved throughout our suffering South we pledge ourselves to spare no exertion to accomplish this work.

In a land stripped of enclosures and forests desolated and impoverished as ours, we cannot, without aid, guard the graves from exposure and possible desecration; we can only cover them with our native sod, and with pious care guard them with the wild flowers from the fields. But with the generous aid and cordial co-operation of those who have suffered less, but who feel as deeply as we do on this subject, we confidently hope to accomplish far more; to remove further the sacred dust scattered all over this region, and to erect some enduring tribute to the memory of our gallant dead.

Shall the "noble army of martyrs" who, for four years of toil and suffering, bore in triumph the "conquered banner" from Chattanooga to Gettysburg, sleep on the fields of their fame unnoticed and unknown? Shall their names pass from the knowledge of the living, to be treasured only in the mind of him to whom the memory of the just is precious?

What spot so appropriate for the resting place of these heroes as some commanding eminence overlooking the ever memorable plain of Fredericksburg? And what nobler work for the hearts and hands of Southern women, than upon its summit to rear a monument to the unrecorded Confederate dead which, through all time shall testify to the gratitude of the people for whom they so gloriously fell? As no State and scarcely a town or county throughout the limits of the late Confederacy is unrepresented on these battle fields, may we not hope that the co-operation required in order to accomplish our holy work, will be as universal?

An act of the legislature of Virginia will be obtained incorporating our association, so that the property may be held perpetual dedicated to its sacred uses.

We solicit such contributions as the appreciative sympathy of friends in all parts of the country and of the world will extend us. So soon as sufficient means are obtained, our association will proceed to purchase and improve grounds appropriate for a cemetery, and remove thither the remains of the honored dead.

Our association, although its organization is but recent, has been enabled to rescue from oblivion the names and places of burial of many of the noble spirits who fell upon the fields of Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville, the Wilderness, etc. The objects of the association will be pressed forward as rapidly as the requisite means are procured. All auxiliary societies which may be formed are requested to correspond with our association; and should they desire their contributions to be specially appropriated to the graves of any individual, or of any particular State or section, the trust will be sacredly discharged. Any one may become a life member of this association by the contribution of ten dollars.

Donations should be sent to Mrs. J. H. Wallace, President, or Dr. F. P. Wellford, Treasurer. They will be duly acknowledged.

A LADY'S SKETCH OF THE PRISON LIFE OF MR. DAVIS.—The Abbeville (S. C.) Banner has been permitted to make the following extracts from a letter concerning the President of the late Confederate States. The letter, which was written without any idea of publication, is in the familiar style of a friend deeply impressed with the truth of the subject of which she writes, imparting in almost every sentence a sense of that deep sympathy which all the women and men of the late Confederate States feel for the illustrious captive. But to the extracts:

"My friend, Mrs. B. (Mrs. Davis' niece) wrote me she was going to Fortress Monroe, and invited me to join her. Not receiving her letter in time to meet her, we followed her to Fortress Monroe, and after some little diplomacy got permission to enter, and spend the day (the 4th July). We had the happiness of seeing, listening to and dining with our illustrious President—illustrious by his misfortunes, his talents, his high position and his many virtues, which shine most resplendent in the day of gloom.

"Dr. Cooper, (like Dr. Craven,) is enthusiastic in his praise of him, says that it is impossible to entrap him into one word of bitterness or impatience towards his enemies, and shows himself greater in his magnanimity, his patience and gentleness, his wonderful self-control under petty slights and indignities, than in his days of his power in the Confederacy. We saw him first walking feebly across the parade from his lock-up to the casemate, where his wife lives, the nurse and baby by his side, his emaciated figure and tottering step telling the tale of hardships and ill-treatment. Presently we followed him, and not one of us but kissed the emaciated hands which he held out to welcome us, wetting them with our tears. He talks pleasantly, but with difficulty, his voice is so weak, and every hour they give him a teaspoonful of brandy, and he lies down often to rest his back.

"I could understand the temptation to Dr. Craven to set down his conversation, so wonderful it is, so pointed, so strong, and so forcible, every sentence so consecrated as to seem the very essence of wisdom. I found out through Mrs. B. and Dr. Cooper his opinion of Dr. Craven's book; it is not reliable.

"He says he is often misrepresented and often misunderstood, not that he thinks Dr. Craven would falsify wilfully, but Col. Halpin, who wrote the book of Craven, has garbled the conversation to suit his own views and wishes. Col. Halpin was on General Hunter's staff, hence he makes Mr. Davis guilty of the inconsistency of saying 'Hunter was his model of a soldier,' whereas, Mr. Davis said in our presence, 'Hunter is simply a brute. In our early days we were much associated, and I thought him conscientious, though a fanatic; but he is entirely changed since then.'

"While Mr. Davis rested we were taken to see his apartment in Carrell Hall, which is precisely like apartments occupied by lions at a menagerie. The back is closed and three sides of iron bars, and great padlocks. Before these bars three guards walk, gazing at him, waking, sleeping, washing, dressing; not even a curtain to protect him. At 9 o'clock, A. M., he is let out, and at sunset the trumpet sounds, his guard appears, and he is locked in a cage. A bright light from two lamps blazes in his face, which, with the challenging of the sentinels, every two hours effectually keep him awake. He walks out to the ramparts from five to six P. M., Mrs. Davis and B. supporting him. When the signal sounds for the lock-up and the guard appears, he says never a word, but turns from his companions with a look of so much agony, mingled with fortitude, as is heart-rending to witness.

"The most touching sight I ever witnessed was to see him lift his emaciated hands and say, grace, thanking God for all his mercies."

GENERAL BEAUREGARD AT PARIS.—We extract the following interesting particulars concerning our illustrious leader, General Beauregard, from the Paris correspondence of the Renaissance of the 12th inst:

"General Beauregard has returned to Paris; but, in a few days, he goes to Vichy, for the benefit of the waters. While here, the illustrious Confederate has been the object of a sympathizing and very flattering curiosity. There are few eminent, especially among those belonging to the army, or connected with the government, who have not sought the honor of seeing and entertaining him. The Emperor has invited him to visit the camp of Chalons, and General Fave, Governor of the Polytechnic school has volunteered to guide him through all the military establishments of the capital. General Beauregard is astonished by all that he sees here. At Versailles, battle-pictures, by the great French masters, made a profound impression on him. Before some of them he remained more than half an hour in contemplation. The things which most interested him, however, were the artillery museum and the curious collection at the Hotel des Invalides, of plans, in relief, of the fortified places of the world. The General has likewise received from a government, which I am not permitted to name, an extremely brilliant offer, which, however, he declined. He was offered the chief command of an army of 50,000 men, a salary of 100,000 francs per annum, and a donation of lands worth a million of dollars, with the 'grand naturalization' of himself and his family. The General declined, saying that his sword belonged to his country, and he would never draw it except for her. There is one question which is asked him almost every moment: 'In case there should be war between a European power and the United States, would the South revolt?' The General always replies that he thinks not, and this answer invariably seems to cause astonishment—why, indeed, I cannot say."

CLAUDE CO. MISS.

Editors Louisville Courier:

The contest through which you have just passed in Kentucky so successfully shows to us in the South that the mass of the people are in favor of a union of the States upon equal rights and representation, and not for the perpetuation of a party. Many of us have thought for some time past that were upon the eve of another civil war, but the very decided endorsement by your State of the President's policy will most certainly weaken the Radical power. Had the people of the North one-tenth of the experience that we of the South have of the many horrors attendant on a civil war, they would not only be willing to give to all their rights, but submit to even a small portion of the many outrages that have been committed throughout the South.

The cotton crop is the absorbing topic with us. This county, in 1860, shipped about 3,000 bales and had a population of about 14,000 negroes. Now we have about 6,000 and the highest estimate places the crop at 5,000 bales. This is the estimate about the 1st of July. For the last four weeks the army worm has been at work. Some planters who had good prospects to make 150 to 200 bales now say they will be satisfied if they make fifty to sixty bales.

A writer in the New York Tribune says he has traveled through the whole South and estimates the crop at over two millions bales. The highest estimate I have heard made by intelligent and well posted men in New Orleans was 1,500,000 bales. This was before the army worm made its appearance, and the worm will certainly reduce the crop one-third.

As a general thing planters will not be able to pay expenses; they will make no corn, and for the next season they will have neither money, corn, or meat. The future is really a gloomy prospect. As an evidence how the negroes work it is only necessary to refer to a previous remark in the letter. In 1860, 14,000 negroes (men, women, and children) in this county made about 30,000 bales. Now 6,000 [men women and children] would have made about 5,000 bales. Thus nearly one-half the force produces only about one-sixth of the crop of former years. And they made a sufficiency of corn and meat for a third to half of the year; now no corn is made and a planter cannot keep a hog. The hogs belong to the negroes, and if they do not they might as well for they kill them wherever they find them. Thus you will see that our prospects are gloomy enough, even if the radicals would let us alone.

So far we have had but few cases of cholera in this county, and it is decreasing in New Orleans. We are in hopes it will not become epidemic.

GEORGETOWN, Ky., August 27, 1866.

To the Editors of the Enquirer:

General Green Clay Smith has had his name in print more than once, but never in connection with any thing more amusing than an incident which occurred at a festive gathering near here lately. The joke at the General's expense is too good to be lost, and so I send it to you to be embalmed in the Enquirer. The General was making himself useful (as well as omniscient) at the meat table, helping the guests, carving, &c. One young gentleman, who either did not or pretended he did not know the General, was rather frequent in his calls upon his services, as for instance, "Give me some of that lamb," "Pass that bread over here," "Pour me out a glass of that wine," Here, you got me a glass of ice-cream." At last the General's patience was exhausted, and thinking forbearance had ceased to be a virtue, he exclaimed, "I'm getting tired of waiting on you." "The devil you are," says the gent. "I'd like to know if you ain't paid for it?" Who do you take me for?" asked the horrified General. "Why, old Charles, the confectioner; do you reckon I don't know you?"

The General collapsed immediately; and well he might, for such a laugh as was then and there raised I have seldom heard.

THE NEWS

We believe the Editor of the Observer & Reporter, of Lexington, is correct in his notions with reference to the proposed democratic convention for the nomination of our next Governor. And while we entertain a high notion for the 5th of January, and our friends, who advocate that time for the Convention, yet we believe that it would suit the people to meet on the first of May. We expect, however, to agree with our State Committee, when they appoint the day, let that be when it may.

The Observer & Reporter says:

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTIONS.—We see in our exchanges the names of three distinguished Democrats recommended for the candidacy for Governor at the next election. We can vote cheerfully for either one of these gentlemen, but we agree with the Courier that it is too soon to agitate this question. We regret to see that the Yeoman—influential both because of the ability with which it is edited and an expression that its views are those of the Central Committee—has pronounced in favor of a nominating Convention to be held in January or February next. We are clear that the Democratic Convention ought not to be held before the first of May. Let us make May 1st, the anniversary of the great party whose new career of triumph was inaugurated upon that day. We ought not to allow any question of State politics to distract and divide us now. Let the fall and spring elections pass by—Congress assemble and adjourn, and we remain in condition to take advantage of the events daily transpiring. The late movement of the Radical party in Kentucky will greatly strengthen us, and is our plain duty to stand by and see the late Holston party split itself in two. There never was a period when political changes were so frequent and important; and we ought not to put ourselves in a position where we cannot take advantage of any change that may occur. What may seem very proper and best in January, may prove to have been unwise in May. We will never consent to compromise in the slightest degree our principles; but we are convinced that the interest of the State and of every element of our party demand that no Convention be held until May. We are not afraid of Conventions—we are always willing to trust the people; but we are gaining strength daily and it only requires a wise generous, liberal policy to make our next vote almost unanimous. We will of course submit cheerfully to the decision of the Central Committee, whom we recognize as the authorized organ of the party.

AN INCIDENT.—The following is an extract of a letter from New York published in the Baltimore Episcopal Methodist, of the 4th instant. We don't know how much truth there is in this incident, but facts within the knowledge of many persons at least make the statement possible if not plausible.—We have heard even of pious, as well as jewelry, which found their way North during the war, and under circumstances which we think will warrant an effort at restitution.

A Southern lady, on a visit to this city, went to worship in one of the up-town churches. Soon after an elegantly attired New York lady, of high social standing, entered the same pew and remained during the service; after which the Southern lady called her aside into the vestry room, and in the presence of the rector, with whom she was well acquainted, thus addressed her: "Madam, I do not wish to offend you, but that shawl you are wearing belongs to me?" (The shawl was a superb one.) The New Yorker protested, and declared that there must be some mistake. "It," says the Southern lady, "you will examine a certain corner, you will see my initials worked in it, and the rector knows my name very well." The corner was found, as well as the initials. The Southern lady then remarked, "that ring you have upon your finger is also mine, and if you will take the trouble to examine the interior you will see the same initials engraved in the ring." Similar movements as above described took place, and with similar results.

Turning to her again, the Southern lady said: "Madam, that bracelet you have on is mine also, and by pressing a spring on the inside it will unclasp and show you my portrait." The New York lady did as requested, and there was the lady's portrait. She promptly returned the ring and the bracelet, as she was convinced beyond the power to contravert it that they were the property of this Southern lady, and remarked, as she did, "They are yours and you are welcome to them, but as I wore the shawl to church, I must beg the privilege of wearing it home again."

The Southern lady acceded, of course, and they exchanged cards. The shawl came back in due time, but the New York lady had probably obtained the article in such a manner as to render it too unpleasant to divulge. No more was said about it. Moral: If Southern ladies want to know where their articles of missing jewelry and wardrobe furniture are, let them attend some fashionable "up-town" New York church, and if the men want to know what has become of all their fine horse, shipped North by army officers and "bummers," let them spend an evening in Central Park.

WE honestly believe, says the Danville Advocate, that the State of Tennessee is cursed with the most infamous set of politicians, of any other State in the Union. First and foremost, stands Larson Brownlow, who is a disgrace to the civilization of the age. Recently, he has published a lengthy address to the "loyal men" of Tennessee, in which he seeks to array one portion of the people of that State against the other, and, if possible, incite them to civil war. He villifies, in regular Brownlow style, the President of the United States, and eulogizes the reckless party schemes of the Abolition Radicals. "Horace Maynard is another beautiful specimen of Tennessee's would-be leaders. He made a speech at Athens, on the 21st, in which he openly favored negro equality in that State. The following extract shows how he gloried in his own infamy:

"I am an abolitionist, and have always been one. I was accused of being one when I first immigrated to this State. The charge was just; I was full and running over with abolitionism, but I denied it for policy's sake. I am proud to-day that I have been classed among that persecuted set, and deem it the highest compliment to be denounced as such. And I tell you, gentlemen that in a short time all this complaint about negro equality will be done away with. Some months since and it was said that the negro would not be suffered to testify in your courts—that his oath would not be granted him. But how stands matters to-day? He is not only permitted to testify in your courts with impunity, but there is every evidence that he will soon be on a social equality with the white man in your State. Yes, gentlemen, in a short time he will marry and intermarry in your families. It is a little objectionable to-day, but you will soon get over this, and the persecuted negro will be welcomed to your parlors. This will be the result of the political and social changes of the next few months."

In a recent number of the Knoxville Whig, (Brownlow's paper), an atrocious editorial article was published, of which the following is the concluding paragraph:

"It is the settled purpose of the traitors at the North, and the rebels of the South, to involve the country in another bloody war, and this they aim to do during the next two years, under the lead of Andrew Johnson.—An attempt to force Southern traitors into their seats in Congress with bayonets will be made the occasion for the outbreak. Let the Despot now at the head of the Government attempt a thing of this kind if he dare. A million of gallant Union men will at once appear in the District of Columbia, surrounding both the Capitol and the White House, disposing of the heads of leading traitors after the most approved style of the age in which the King of England lost his head. If another war shall be forced upon the country, the loyal masses, who constitute an overwhelming majority of the people of this great nation intend it shall be no child's play. They will, as they ought to do, make the entire Southern Confederacy as God found the earth when he commenced the work of creation, 'without form and void.' They will not, and ought not, leave a rebel fence-rail, out-house or dwelling in the eleven seceded States. And as for the rebel population, let them be exterminated. And when the war is wound up, which should be done rapidly, and with swift destruction—let the lands be surveyed and sold out to pay the expenses of the war, and settled only by a people who will respect the Stars and Stripes."

FROM THE MAY-VILLE TABLE.
SALE.—At the sale of part of Squire Artus' personal property, on his week, 14 pigs, about 6 or 7 weeks old sold at $1.75 each, weighing some 20 or 25 lbs. Another lot, a size larger sold at $1.75 each. Sows for fattening, medium size, brought from $15 to $20 each.

SALE OF MASON COUNTY REAL ESTATE.—The farm of the late Mr. Nancy Wilson, near Mayslick, was sold on the 24 inst., to Mr. David Hamilton, of Dracken, for $100 per acre. The tract embraces about 30 acres.

Col. Roswell Grant, uncle of the General has bought a farm near Mayslick. The tract embraces 25 acres, and was sold at $125 per acre by Mr. Samuel Pepper.

An Omnibus and team of horses were sold at Mayslick, on Saturday last, for $680, to Mr. Miller, of this city.

A meeting has been in continuance for the last week at the Presbyterian Church in Mayslick. Six additions are reported. The pastor in charge, Rev. Mr. Evans, has been assisted by Rev. Henry M. Seidler, of Elizaville. The meeting was a very interesting one.

Thomas Grinnell, Sheriff of Davis county, shot and killed a noted character named Churchill, near Owensboro on Saturday last. Grinnell went to arrest him on the charge of murdering a returned rebel soldier who was blind, and upon Church's attempt to draw a weapon, Grinnell shot him three times, killing him instantly.

A couple of brothers by the name of Frazer, with another man, while on a drunken spree near St. Joseph, the other day, got into a fight resulting in one of the Frasers stabbing and killing his brother.—Paris (Mo.) Mercury.

We have a rumor that Mr. Stanton, Secretary of War, has been appointed Minister to Spain, and that he will retire from the Cabinet in a few days. Gen. Stebbins and Gen. Frank Blair are spoken of as his successors.

NO SNAKES WANTED.—The Hawaiian Legislature has ordered a bill to be engrossed which prohibits the introduction into the Kingdom of venomous reptiles. It appears that Dr. Hillebrand, sent as special commissioner to China and the East Indies to procure coolies, reports that he found in Java snakes which were used by the natives as rat-catchers. The Sandwich Islands are infested with rats, but as in Ireland, there is not a snake to be found. The Doctor, tickled with the discovery, secured a barrel full of the reptiles, which were daily expected to arrive. The natives were horrified at the prospect of being overrun with snakes, and hence the bill.

CINCINNATI LIVE STOCK MARKET.
 BRIGHTON PENS, MONDAY EVENING, SEPTEMBER 3.

The receipts of beef cattle for the past week were rather above the average, but there was a good demand from the butchers and feeders, and also some inquiry from shippers, and though the arrivals were larger than the week previous, prices were still sustained. The receipts this morning were larger than anticipated, and the market opened rather dull, but as no disposition was manifested by the drovers to concede any in prices, buyers entered the market, and by noon over 700 head had been sold, and but few remained in the pens this evening unsold. We quote the market closing steady at $4.50 for common $5.25 to $7.40 for fair, 6.65 for good, and 6.75 for prime butcher's cattle per cental gross, with some sales of prime shipping cattle at 7 dollars.

There is some improvement in the demand for hogs, and the market is rather firmer, though there has been no essential change in prices. We quote good butcher's hogs at 10a10 50—the latter for extra heavy—and light stock hogs at 9.25a10 per cental gross. We learn that in some portions of Kentucky 11 dollars is being paid for stock hogs, which would seem to indicate that farmers are disposed to drive with a full head or steam. We have not heard of any contracts for hogs for the next packing season.

Sheep are in better supply, and the market is easier, closing at 3.25a4 per cental gross, according to quality.

COVINGTON LIVE STOCK MARKET.
 BROOK PENS, MONDAY, September 2.

CATTLE.—The market has been quite brisk during the past week, with receipts and sales of 450 head at the following figures, viz: First quality 7a 7.50 per 100 lbs; second do., 5.50a6.75; third do., 3.50a4.50.

SHEEP.—Market dull and overstocked. Receipts of the past week amounted to 2,500 head. Our quotations are as follows: First quality, 5.50 per 100 lbs; second do., 4a4.50; third do., 3a3.50.

HOGS.—There is a tolerably fair demand from the butchers, with light sales at 10a10.75 per 100 lbs, gross, for the first quality, and 9.50a10 for the second quality.

FRESH BLUE LICK WATER for sale at the Drug Store of May 31, 1866. HUBT. W. SHAWHAN.

A. J. MOREY, Editor.

Mr. Cook, Esq., of this city, took the premium on the blankets at the Fair. Mr. Cook is the proprietor of the mill at this place, and manufactures jeans, flannels, &c., of the best qualities.

Mr. St. John, of Carlisle, is the proprietor of the Nicholas Hotel, and one of the best kept houses in Kentucky. His rooms are well and neatly furnished, with every convenience to make his guests comfortable and pleasant. His table is furnished with all the market affords. Our friends should make it a point to call on him when passing through Nicholas.

We are under obligations to our friends, Grandville Young and Mack Smith, Esq., for Indiana papers. Mr. Smith was once a citizen of Cynthiana, and a member of the Harrison Bar. We give these gentlemen a hearty welcome.

The Officers of the Court House changed hands last Monday. Perry Whorrell was just installed in his office, clerk of the County Court. L. N. Webb, has been put in possession of the "public jail," by J. Bruce, who resigned his place without shedding a tear. He has the position of town Marshal. Judge Curry, we understand has also been duly installed. These changes we believe are much to the benefit of the people, and they are well pleased with their work. So may it ever be.

The Fox House, in Paris, is said to be a very popular hotel. We have been there several times and find it a most comfortable place with plenty of room to feed all who camp with him, and of the very best kind. He has a better chance now than he did in old Virginia, while in the commissary, and if his old friends of the faithful will call on him they will find he holds a good hand.

We have been informed that Mr. Geo. H. Givens, and Mr. Charles Kinsbrough, judges at our last election in the Cynthiana precinct, would not permit Capt. Reed, superintendent of the Freedmen's Bureau, at this place, to vote. We did not know the cause or learn the objections, but we have confidence sufficient in the judgment of the judges to say that they are right, and their judgment is sustained by the people.

We have also been informed that Captain Reed has brought suit against these gentlemen for damages, in the United States court.

[Communicated.]

We respectfully solicit the attention of physicians to the merits of the Electro-Thermal Bath. For a treatment of disease electricity, as a tonic agent, is unsurpassed in the treatment of many nervous and chronic difficulties, and a practice based upon this in combination with other standard remedies cannot but be entirely successful. There is no occasion for fear of injury from its use. By the Electro-Thermal Bath no shocks are produced. The electrical currents are mild and soothing, producing the most pleasant and luxurious bath in the world, while at the same time they penetrate perceptibly to the sense of the patient, the innermost organism. In short, we have supreme control of the electrical currents in all that pertains to their prophylactic and therapeutic adaptation.

On Wednesday Mr. John Good, gunsmith at this place shot himself, accidentally in his right thigh. It is a painful, but not a serious wound. He will be about in a few days.

Mr. Land says he has received new goods. A fine assortment of gentlemen's dress goods—an 1 dress patterns for ladies.

Mr. Browning, the United States Attorney General, is a native of Cynthiana.

The Raheals of Vermont, have carried that State by an increased majority. We believe it will be the last time.

The Bourbon County Fair commenced Tuesday last, and many of our citizens take rides in the special trains to attend to that fair.

Col. R. R. Bolling has been appointed Surveyor of Customs in Louisville.

On last Thursday, Dr. N. C. Dille, of this county, purchased of Mr. Joseph Woods, the tract of land, known as the old Tabb's farm, lying on the Cynthiana and Georgetown pike, about one half mile from the former place, at $100, per acre.

It is peculiarly pleasant to be remembered kindly by friends.

We were therefore greatly impressed by the reception of two San Francisco papers of the 21st of June from our old and highly esteemed friend Samuel L. Magee, of California.

We hope he will continue in well doing.

We learn from yesterday's telegraphic dispatches that General Geary is to enter the Radical Convention at Philadelphia, with General Butler on one arm and General Banks on the other.

General Butler would carry in his hand a silver tea-pot and sugar-bowl, and General Banks a sample of Red River cotton, it would be quite an improvement on that part of the programme.

General Geary might wear all around his hat the motto: "5,000 cash to the politicians who staid at home, and $100 in six years to our gallant boys in blue."

Before communicating this suggestion to the Convention, it might be advisable to ascertain the opinion of E. D. M.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

WHO IS THE GOVERNMENT?

The National Convention, recently held in Philadelphia, has had the salutary effects, which the friends of peace, of liberty, and the Union intended. It has consolidated the opponents of the Radical party everywhere, and united them on a common platform, which was erected on the basis of the Constitution of the United States, and which, therefore, must stand or fall with the Constitution. To expect a concert of action, a harmony of purpose, between the Radical and Conservative elements, is absurd. One or the other must go down. If any man doubts or denies this assertion, we need but refer him to the position assumed by the President in his reply to the address of the Convention Committee.

His reply, on that occasion, is an open declaration of war against the adherents of Stevens and Sumner. He calls the Radical Congress a rump Congress, because by their refusal to admit the Southern States, they constituted a mere rump, without head or members, while the Convention, in which were represented all the States and Territories, expressed the sentiments of the whole people, North and South. The patriotism, and the spirit of harmony which characterized the proceedings of that Convention, brought forth the President's remark, that this Convention could be favorably compared to that august assembly which framed and adopted the immortal Declaration of Independence.

After these open and bold avowals of the President, we can but expect to witness a political campaign waged, on the part of his enemies, with a bitterness and a spirit of vindictiveness, heretofore unequalled in the political agitations and party struggles of our country.

The Radical press has already opened the campaign with great earnestness, and the stump-orators of Pennsylvania, eager for the fray, have followed in the wake of their leader, Thad. Stevens, in the same ireful spirit.

They represent our President as the arch-traitor, who is in league with the rebels for the purpose of overthrowing the government. But they fail to explain to the people, what they understand by the term, "Government." Not many years ago, when Lincoln was the President, and all went right to suit Radical ideas, the President was the Government, and all were traitors, that refused a blind obedience to his mandates. At present, the Congress, in which the Radical faction is in the ascendency, is the Government, and the President, being opposed to their reckless schemes, the arch-traitor. If through the elections, which are to come off, this fall, the majority in Congress should happen to be of a Conservative complexion, and coincide with the President, then Congress would cease to be the Government, and Thad. Stevens, and Charles Sumner will have to be recognized as the embodiment of what Radicalism terms the "Government."

Such views become the Radical party, that seems to have adopted the idea of Louis XIV, whose principles were embodied in the declaration: "I AM THE STATE."

In the United States, the President is not the Government, for he may be impeached and tried, nor is it the Congress, which is changed every other year. The Government, which we recognize, and to which we bow in obedience, is the Constitution of the United States, the Organic Law, by which President, Supreme Court, and Congress alike are guided, and to which they all owe obedience.

But since the President, in his conduct, recognizes the Constitution as his guide, while Congress has trampled it under foot, he must be considered as the true representative of the Government, so long as the majority in Congress is composed of usurpers and enemies of the Government.

Proceeding from this only correct principle, it is hardly to be doubted who will be the victors in the impending contest for supremacy in the administration of the Government. The people will have to decide it, and to them, we can filently appeal.

"If Damphool" isn't the editor of the Frankfort Commonwealth, his brother or some near relative is.—Louisville Courier.

OUR SITUATION.

The intolerance which is the natural effect of great excitement, whether religious or political, while the cause of that excitement exists, with all honest men dies as soon as the exciting cause is removed.

Never in our national history, has this truism been more happily illustrated than now.

While many honestly retain resentment for injuries inflicted in the madness of our late calamitous war, they are forgetful that in most cases, those injuries are rather to be ascribed to individual instances of meanness, rapacity and cruelty, than to the entire party, by members of which they were inflicted. And we have reason to believe that the entire Federal party are not responsible for the misdeeds of many of the citizens and soldiers of that party.

In the origin of our troubles, there can be no doubt that thousands whose Union feelings were intense, engaged in the war, with the sole purpose of maintaining the integrity of the Union at all hazards; and once enlisted in feelings, as well as many of them in fact, they ultimately and by insensible steps, became almost participants in wrongs of which we need not now speak, and from which now in the calm of peace they shrink with the horror of honest christian patriots.

Thousands of such men, are now either actually enrolled in the Democratic invincible legions, or so far enlisted by their sympathies and sense of right that they contemplate with delight the "lifting aloft" of the scale of "returning justice."

Yet, at such a moment, when the President of the United States is gallantly leading the conservative and restoration movement, and when the myriads of his supporters are seconding his manly efforts, with seemingly hearty good will, there are many, too many of the old rank and file of the party who seem to fear that this co-operation is a "wooden horse" and fail to welcome them with old fashioned Democratic cordiality.

This is neither from principle nor policy the true course for us to pursue.

On the contrary, our duty to ourselves and our country is to avail ourselves eagerly of every honorable means of rescuing from the hands of the tyrannical majority who entrenched behind the fact that they cannot be unseated from Congress during the term for which they were elected, and now assuming all power executive and judicial as well as legislative, breathing nothing but destruction and oppression to the conquered south; and in their unwarrantable exclusion from the powers and emoluments of the general government, are waging a treasonable war against the fundamental principles of all free government, in heavy taxation without representation.

Let all honest men now combine to hurl the tyrants from their usurped seats; and in their place let us elect moderate and honest men. Then and not till then, can we, as citizens, take time to disagree about issues whether new or old in which men of integrity may differ, and while disagreeing maintain mutual respect.

Kentucky appears to furnish more of runaway candidates for hynminal happiness than any other State; and a large portion of them come to the Queen City and take refuge at the Barnel House, to arrive at the consummation of their dreams of bliss.

The latest affair of this kind was managed in a very neat way. A certain Mr. Hanes, of Owensboro, loved a certain Miss Throckmorton who lived in the country near that place. Miss Throckmorton loved Mr. Hanes, but her father didn't. On the contrary, he threatened to deposit an onnee of lead in Mr. Hanes' body if that individual should dare to persevere in his suit. But the threatened lover was not frightened. He became a strategist. He enlisted in his service several young men of his acquaintance, and gave postal currency with a liberal hand to the colored citizens resident at the loved one's home. The result was a coon hunt on the plantation, in which all the people of the place joined; and, while the enraged father joined in the sport, Mr. Hanes hunted for his love, seated her by his side in a buggy, behind a fast horse, drove to the nearest station, came to Cincinnati and was married.—[Cincinnati Commercial, 2d.]

A political party may flatter itself that it acts as a unit when it acts as a cypher.

KIDNEY SWEET POTATOES. My method to keep sweet potatoes in air dry sand by spreading it on boards or a board wall; dig the potatoes in the morning and pick them in the afternoon, before the day falls, throwing out all the bruised ones. I pack them in flour barrels—first a coat of sand then a layer of potatoes, so that the sand would fill the interstices. If the sand is too dry, as when dried in a kiln, it will shrivel the potatoes. I had a room on the south side of my dining-room that I kept the potatoes in after picking them in the barrels. The heat from the coal stove in the dining-room was all that was given them, and I did not lose two dozen tubers out of eight barrels; I have found them as sound in the sand as when dug in the fall. The outside dampness should be well dried off the potatoes. I felt myself amply paid by the treat they gave through the winter. Cold fall rains on cold damp sand make the potatoes lose their sweetness.—Newark N. J. Country Gentleman.

TOMATO CATSUP.—Mrs. Page, in the Prairie Farmer, gives her premium receipt, as follows: Take ripe tomatoes (the small red ones are preferable,) wash, but not skin them, and thoroughly boil one hour, and then put them through a hair sieve, and to one quart of juice add one tablespoon-full of cinnamon, one of black pepper, half of cayenne, half of nutmeg, one of good mustard, two-thirds teaspoonful of salt. Boil three hours, and then to one quart of juice add one pint of pure cider vinegar. Boil half an hour longer; bottle hot and seal up. This catsup will keep for years, and not require "shaking before using." A porcelain kettle should be used.

To the Editors of the Enquirer:

As we pass from the recent excitement of the recent election in Kentucky, in which the Democracy have achieved so signal a victory there is a general inquiry among the Democrats of Kentucky as to who shall be our next Governor, and the response in Eastern Kentucky is universal among the Democracy, that Hon. R. H. Stanton, of Maysville, is the man entitled to the position. He possesses in an eminent degree all the qualifications to make a good Governor, "he is capable and honest," he has had great experience as a public man, having served six years in Congress, being a ripe scholar, thorough lawyer, and clever gentleman. Colonel Stanton, as a lawyer and citizen, possesses the entire confidence and esteem of men of all parties, and while we would not detract from other gentlemen's merits, we hazard nothing in saying that Colonel Stanton would poll a larger vote in Eastern Kentucky than any Democrat in the State.

Yours,
EASTERN KENTUCKY.

About the 8th of January next, a convention will be held in Frankfort, or Louisville, for the nomination of a candidate for Governor, and we have no doubt, if nominated by that body, Col. Stanton will consent to make the race. We fully endorse all that the Enquirer's correspondent has said, with the addition that Eastern Kentucky is certainly entitled to the Governor since it has not been honored in that respect since the days of Governor Metcalfe.—Maysville Bulletin.

The Washington Correspondent of the New York Herald says:

Steps were taken to-day by the government to stay all proceedings for the present in the matter of the confiscation of the late Confederate General Beauregard's property in the Southern States.

A young and beautiful German girl, of excellent character and family, at Louisville, suddenly disappeared Thursday night, and it is feared committed suicide by jumping into the Ohio. Disappointed love.

A Radical editor in the North says that Colonel Forney is of a "noble type of public men." He is of the type known to printers as the minion. (Prentice.)

A wretch named Nicholes Schmidt, in Chicago, has been arrested, examined and committed to jail for outraging his own daughter, a little girl only five years of age.

It is said that Brownlow never travels without a body-guard; to which it has been added that "the body-guard on such occasions is never unattended by a blackguard."

DEATH OF DEAN RICHMOND.—This eminent politician and railroad king, died in the city of New York, last Monday morning, after an illness of a few days. Mr. Richmond was widely known as a most important and influential man. He began life as a salt boiler, in Syracuse, New York, and from that humble position he became one of the most eminent men in the country.

At the time of his death he was about sixty-five years old.

SEWING MACHINES.
IN connection with my Piano Forte agency I have a Newell & Gibbs' Twisted Loop Stitch Family Sewing Machine, which equals any other in efficiency, and far surpasses all others in the important particulars of simplicity, durability, cheapness, noiselessness, and beauty of motion. It has received the most marked commendations ever given any machine, no less than twenty-five that premiums during the fall of 1884; besides the Gold Medal at the American Institute New York. It is just now being introduced in the West. I freely extend to it the same responsibility I exercise over my other business, which with my friends at least, will be sufficient guarantee for them to accept my choice of machines as their own and thus save themselves the exceeding expense of an extended investigation.
Sample machines can be seen at my music room.

FREE TO EVERYBODY!
THE GUIDE TO HEALTH AND BEAUTY.
[Just Published.]

IT teaches how to remove Tan, Freckles, Pimples, Blisters, Moth Patches, Sallow-ness, Eruptions, and all impurities of the skin; how to cure the skin, leaving it white and clear as alabaster; how to produce the fullest development of the female form (as practised by the French) causing the bust to grow round and full, and if the form has been lost by peddling, lagging, or maternity, restoring it to more than its original fullness, firmness, and beauty. It teaches how to reduce in size the hands and feet; produce corpulency or the reverse; remove superfluous hair; cure corns, bunions, warts, and moles; renew your age; cure drunkenness, catarrh, dyspepsia, neuralgia, and all diseases of the system, and gain the love and affection of any person you may choose, together with other useful and valuable information. It quickly removes tan, freckles, pimples, blotches, moth patches, sallowness, eruptions, and all impurities of the skin, kindly healing the same, leaving the skin white and clear as alabaster. Its use cannot be detected by the closest scrutiny, and being a vegetable preparation is perfectly harmless. It is the only article of the kind used by the French, and is considered by the Parisian as indispensable to a perfect toilet. Upwards of 30,000 bottles were sold during the past year, a sufficient guarantee of its efficacy. Price only 75 cents. Sent by mail, post-paid, on receipt of an order, to

VALUABLE
Town Property!
CORNER LOTS
Three Houses and Lots
FOR SALE!!

I have determined to sell my property in Cynthiana, which consists of Three Houses, two of them Frame, and one Brick, situated on the North East corner of Main and Pleasant streets.

The Brick is a good dwelling House, containing some five or six rooms, and in excellent condition. It is now occupied by Dr. McNeese. The Doctor's office is in the corner building and Mr. Richard Cummins occupies the third house as a Furniture and undertakers establishment.

This property is situated in an excellent portion of the city of Cynthiana, and is valuable. Those desiring to purchase will address me at Centerville, Bourbon County, Ky. My residence is at Jacksonville.

INCREASE of RATS.—The Farmer's Gazette
(English) asserts and proves by figures that one pair of rats will have progeny and descendants no less than 151,150 in three years.
Now, unless this immense family can be kept down, they would consume more food than could sustain 65,000 human beings.

See "Costar's" advertisement above.

RATS versus BIRDS. Whoever engages in shooting small birds is a cruel man whoever aids in exterminating rats is a benefactor.<
